. In the right-hand column of the table, you can also find the number of votes that each term received during the election.. The most voted term is agile, a synonym of agile engineering. Terms with the most votes received: 1. Field of the Invention The present invention is directed to a flexible, high temperature silicone paste comprising an organopolysiloxane base and from 0.02 to 2 wt. % of a high temperature curing agent, the paste having a good storage stability. 2. Description of the Prior Art Flexible, high temperature silicone pastes have found wide use for application to the edges of conveyor belts for use in hot-stamping, photoengraving and other operations. Pastes of this type are also used as electrical insulation and weather-proofing materials. For this purpose, they are processed with heated rolls or winding machines. The prior art offers silicone pastes of this type whose curing agent is an organic peroxide, such as benzoyl peroxide, epoxy-functional silanes, vinyl ethers or epoxy-functional alkoxysilanes. Pastes having a curing agent of the methylhydrogenpolysiloxane type have previously not been available for use at high temperatures. This is particularly true in connection with the use of high temperature curing agents, since a high degree of stability is required. Silicones containing methylhydrogensiloxanes as curing agents are already known as silicone adhesives and give cured silicone products having desirable properties. German published applications DE-AS No. 1,934,891; DE-AS No. 2,320,843; and DE-AS No. 2,369,809 describe silicone adhesives having methylhydrogensiloxanes as curing agents and from 2 to 50 wt. % of polysiloxane-oxyalkyl groups. It is also known that silicone adhesives may be prepared from polysiloxanes that have from 1 to 50 wt. % of Si--O--C linkages, see German Auslegeschriften Nos. 1,560,426 and 1,561,814, by reacting these with organohydrogensiloxanes. The organic peroxides used in these known silicone adhesives are benzoyl peroxide or 4,4'-bis(t-butylperoxy)diisopropylbenzate. The silicones listed for use in
